Joint statement from the governors and the GMB

For the Governors and the GMB Trade Union the welfare of the children is paramount, as is the safety and job security of the staff.

As a consequence of the talks held at Acas, no further moves to academisation will take place for at least a year. Any discussions about future plans affecting the status of the school will involve all stakeholders including the unions, and meetings of governors will be quorate in line with The School Governance regulations.

Now that the GMB has formally ended the dispute, the Governors and the union look forward to working constructively together in the future for the benefit of all the children in the school.
